With Mr. Warner in the field we can feel assured that the work will progress as fast as possible.

After God had finished the rattlesnake the toad and vampire, he had an awful substance left with which he made the knocker. A knocker is a two-legged animal with a cork screw soul, a water-logged brain and a combination back-bone made of jelly and glue. where other people have their hearts he carries a tumor of rotten principals. When the knocker comes down the street honest people turn their backs, the angel in heaven take precipitate refuge behind their harps, and the devil locks the gates of hell.

They Went Together.
Tom Meyers was a peddler in a bumble way in Chicago, and he and his outfit were well known in the poorer quarters. His wagon was old and rickety, his horse had seen years of service in a street car line, and the peddler was old and feeble as his horse, which,
by the way, bore the impressive name of Baron.

Saturday is always a busy day with peddlers, and one very cold Saturday peddler Meyers had an unusually hard day. As he drove home late in the evening he noticed that Baron looked sick. He gave him a good supper of oats, rubbed him down and then went to his own supper.

An hour later he again visited Baron and found him worse. He applied such remedies as he could, and then, finding that the horse evinced a desire to lie down, he led it out of the stable and up the street.

Around and around the block he led Baron, and in the early morning a policeman found the horse lying on the street and the old peddler by his side with an arm on the animal's neck, and both were dead.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The Pygmy Hippopotamus.

One of the animals least known to the outside world is the pygmy hippopotamus of West Africa. It is just what its name implies, a pygmy hippopotamus. It is much smaller than the common hippopotamus, being no larger than an ordinary or fair sized hog. It differs somewhat from the common hippo in the character of its teeth, and instead of spending its time in the rivers and lakes in large herds it wanders about through the jungles singly or in pairs, much after the manner of swine in search of mast.

Point thence southeasterly along the shore for a distance of approximately two miles, extending back from the shore a distance of not more than 2500 feet, located on the northeast shore of Woronofski Island, Tongass National Forest, Alaska, as shown on a map of the area. No bid of less than $1.00 per
M. feet for Sitka spruce and $1.50 per
M. feet for Western hemlock will be

Washington's Hand.
George Washington's hand was described as that of a giant. On the last occasion of General Lafayette's visit to this country he remarked to Mr. Cossitt when referring to a former visit, "You were holding to a single finger of the good general's remarkable hand—the greatest feat you could perform at that time."

A Fee to Books.
The most ancient destroyer of books known was the Babylonian king, Nabonassar, who in the third century B. C. destroyed all the records of the reigns and rulers precedent to himself.

Complexion Masks.
Ladies of quality originally wore masks either to protect their complexions from the burning sun or out of modesty to prevent them from being recognized while out of doors. Poppaea, the wife of Nero, was said to have been the inventor of the mask, but the common use of it in public was not observed till the end of the sixteenth century.

A Man's Blood.
The blood of an average grown man weighs twenty pounds.

Horace Greeley's Funeral.
The day Horace Greeley was buried at Greenwood cemetery, Nov. 29, 1872, stores were closed and houses along the route were draped in black. Flags on the shipping, in the harbor, were at half mast, and bells tolled from 1 to 3 o'clock. Two hundred and fifty carriages, containing the president of the United States, senators and other friends, were in the procession. It was one of the most notable funerals ever held in New York city.

Leaves—You said it.
What is your name and where did you get it? Why, I never saw a leaf I ever got was from a tree. The police gave it to me—Baltimore American.

Soaked Them.
First I soaked them in water and then I got their heads. Soaked them in water of their ancestors' bones and then I soaked them in the police. (New York Times)

A Bachelor's Outburst.
Dear sir, I am a bachelor. My income is twelve hundred. The small no doubt, yet I contrive to have a lot of fun. You'll think me selfish, yet until I'm richer, I must own, I'd rather be a bachelor and jog along alone.

Far be it from me to deride
Or scoff at wedded bliss. I've thought the matter over well, And my opinion's this:

Though bachelors are selfish things,
I would just as selfish be To take a wife and bring her to A life of drudgery.

Suppose I loved a girl (I do).
D'you think I'd care to see Her toil and sell her pretty hands The live-long day for me?

If I grow rich I'll crave the hand

A School For Bachelors.
In London there is a school in which bachelors are taught to make beds, cook, sew and look after their home needs generally.

The Golden Crested Wren.
The golden crested wren is the smallest not only of Britain but of all European birds. Its average weight is only about eight grains. The length of the feathers is about three and a half inches and the stretch of the wings about five inches, but when the feathers are taken off the length of the body does not exceed one inch.

Sensible Advice.
A writer who had made a good bit of money at a single shake of the bag went to Charles Reade for advice as to investments. "Well," said Reade, "I should say put it in the best gilt edged securities. Divide it among the first class bonds of the first class nations. It's better to sleep on 3 per cent than to lie awake on 6."

LABOR.
Labor, if we would but perceive it, is one of the greatest earthly blessings. It rewards with health, contentment of mind, cheerfulness of spirit and sound, refreshing sleep, few of which blessings of life are long enjoyed by those who do not daily, in one form or another, labor.

Making the Map of California.
From the vast flat stretches of the Sacramento valley to the loftiest peaks of the high Sierra in California the United States geological survey topographers have been for some years engaged in making accurate and detailed surveys. Recognizing the great value of having the valley lands of the state completely mapped at as early a date as possible, California has for the past nine years co-operated with the federal survey in work in different parts of the state, contributing toward the necessary expenditures a dollar of state money for each dollar spent by the federal government. The result will be a huge topographic map showing the physical characteristics of the state from end to end. The map will be made up of a large number of sheets of uniform size, each representing a rectangular area called a quadrangle. Already 174 quadrangles have been surveyed, and an atlas sheet for each has been engraved and printed by the survey.

The world is charitable enough to forgive the man who writes poetry only because he needs the money.

A man may have reasons for trying to deceive others; but why he should try to deceive himself is a mystery.

When you hear a man making cynical remarks about the fair sex one of the species has used him for a door-mat.

The man who blames it on a woman is one kind of a jelly fish.

FOOLED THE STUDENTS.

A Clever Hoax That Was Perpetrated at Harvard University.
Richard Washburn Child, the novelist, when at Harvard university was the originator of a joke which has become perpetuated in the university. The Bookman describes the incident as follows:

"While an undergraduate at Harvard Mr. Child happened to be, among other things, one of the board of editors of the Lampoon. The Crimson, the Harvard undergraduate daily, had announced that it would print no edition on Memorial day, 1901. At Mr. Child's suggestion the Lampoon issued a fake number of the Crimson, delicately enough caricatured to deceive all but the most observant readers.

"The appearance of the college paper was accurately reproduced, even to certain typographical errors for which the Crimson had been notorious, but the contents were such that the whole Cambridge community was for a time in turmoil. Information that the janitor of one of the college laboratories had upset a jar of microbes and that all those who had been near the laboratory should report at once to the college doctor; that so-and-so of the crew squad had rowed himself out of his shell, but had reached shore without ill effects, and that the president and fellows of Harvard college had decided not to offer President McKinley an honorary degree was given with the utmost gravity.

"A statement in the fake that the Crimson was making more money than was warranted and that $150 on all $3 subscriptions would be returned that afternoon brought many freshmen to the Crimson office at the appointed time. A sign, hung in the night over the Crimson office, reiterated this announcement and was another part of the hoax. Its complete success was for long the talk of Cambridge and the forbidden subject of conversation in the Crimson sanctum."

Pittsburg—Austria gained four future conscripts when Mrs. John Korak of Braddock gave birth to quadruplets all of them boys. Mrs.
Korak and her husband stated that they intended to call their children after the first great battle won by Austria.

When the possibility of the youngsters being compelled to go nameless because of the absence of Austrian victories was suggested, the father declared: "They can wait, but it will not be long."

London—Rudyard Kipling, who lives near Brighton, was recently arrested as a suspicious person while taking one of his regular "constitutionals" along the sea front.

He entered into the fun of the thing. In fact, he was delighted at being mistaken for a possible German spy, as it proved to him in a convincing manner that vigilant watch was being kept. Kipling was detained for some time during which he was searched, but eventually his identity was established, and he was set free with apologies.

Cecil Chesterton, brother of the more famous "G. K." had a similar experience recently.

Gold bullion, valued at 1,000,000 and 100,000 pounds of silver salmon the largest shipment of its kind ever received at this port, were in the cargo of the steamship City of Seattle, of the Pacific Coast Steamship Company which reached Seattle from Southeastern Alaska at 4: 30 yesterday morning.

The City of Seattle also brought 11,000 cases of canned salmon from Glacier, Funtar bay and Nak-at and 150 passengers.

Of the gold bullion $500,000 came from the Treadwell mines of Southeastern Alaska and $500,000 in pokes from Yukon river points.

The Duck season is on in full force and many of the expert hunters of the city have made a trip to the flats during the past week.
They report the ducks and geese there by the hundreds and the shooting is fine.

The Ashlock Hidro Carbon Burner now ready to install in any house or boat, the greatest fuel saver ever invented.—St. Michael

Real Estate Titles.
The insuring of real estate titles had been attempted until one of the Philadelphia trust companies put it into execution in 1876. It issued the first title insurance on June 24 of that year.

Alsace-Lorraine.
Alsace-Lorraine has an area of 5,901 square miles and about 2,000,000 inhabitants. Its people are noted for their thrift and industry. It is rich in mineral resources, and its industries are many, varied and progressive.

Lost His Best Friend.
"I lost my best friend the other day," said the cheerful idiot.
"Indeed? Who was that?" asked the sympathetic man.
"Myself. I was out walking and got lost in the woods."—Exchange.

His Feet.
"That steeplejack did a paradoxical thing in fastening the weather signal on the church steeple."
"What was it?"
"He was successful in a vane at tempt."—Exchange.

Not Sentimental.
"Ah," a sentimental spinster said, with a sigh, "are there any sweeter words in the English language than 'I love you?'" "Well," replied her bachelor friend unsympathetically, "I prefer to hear 'Dinner is ready!'"

Shocking.
"There is one class of men who, no matter how brave they are, will not handle their subject without gloves."
"Who are they?"
"Electric linemen."—Baltimore American.

A Tactful Hint.
"I hope you appreciate the fact, sir, that in marrying my daughter you marry a large hearted, generous girl?"
"I do, sir, and I hope she inherits those qualities from her father."— Philadelphia Telegraph.

Service at St. Philips Church

Sunday Evening at 7:30. One of "Billy Sunday's Sermons" will be there.

Miss Eleanor Lynch received word the first of the week that her mother was ill at Kassan, and as there was no boat going to Kassan Miss Lynch chartered the Albino to make the trip and taking along as companions Mrs. Frank Clarke and Miss Mary Loftus.

Mr. D. W. McKean arrived on the Princess Sophia to take charge of the work of removing snags, and drift wood from the channel on the Stikine river. Mr. McKean states that the work will be done from this side of the canyon down as far as the Great Glacier. Mr. Wm.
Noel, who accompanies Mr. McKean will act as engineer on powerboat used for this work.

E. A. Lindman, family, and party are away from town on a few weeks camping trip.

Quite a considerable portion of the Wrangell Townsite is unoccupied and unclaimed and it is believed by many of our citizens a useless expense at the present time to divide or sub-divide this part in lots, or even blocks, as the time seems remote when this land would be of any practical use or value to the people of Wrangell.

F. S. Dowling one of the Chief inspectors of the Canadian Government telegraph line is a passenger up on the Winifred to Telegraph where he goes to inspect that station.

Billy Hood has been on the sick list for the past week.

The front of the Wrangell Drug Co., is being improved by raising and remodeling the front.

Mrs. S. J. Cole one of the old timers of Wrangell arrived up on the Mariposa Tuesday and is renewing old acquaintances about town.

"Dad Stewart, Mr. Haskins and Lawrence Case are out on a hunting trip this week.

The Duckland, Capt. Clark and Oscar Layton made a trip to the West Coast the first of the week.

Hardship comes when the fire of genius isn't hot enough to keep the pot boiling.

It may be some consolation to a spinster when she sees a married man loaded to the slopping over point with corn juice.

A good show at the Wrangell Photoshow tonight.

And the Kansas City Star surmises that the kaiser will probably rename it Bill-gium in honor of himself.

"The Dream" is the proper place to go when in Ketchikan.

And in this year, of all others, when it should have been done early, nobody seems to be thinking a single thought about the Christmas shopping.

A daring speculator down east ran $200 up to $6500 and then went broke. We don't believe in watching the clock but a man ought to know when it's quitting time.

Success seldom comes to a man who is too lazy to meet it halfway.

It took this modern war to teach the glorious possibilities of a retreat.

Opportunity knocks once, but envy is a continuous hammer wi-elder.

There's no place like home when a man goes broke at a summer resort.

pressed profanity etc. the trip was uneventful and no deer.
